

PRACTICAL 06

VILLAGE AFTER A LONG TIME

My exam come to end and me and my family are very excited for visiting village. I am excited because My village is a place that I like to visit in my holidays or whenever I feel tired and want to relax. A village is a place that is far away from the pollution and noise of the city. Also, you feel a connection with the soil in a village.

When the word “village” first comes to mind, we imagine a lush green field and unpolluted environment, and this is the exact scenario in Indian villages. They learn to share and care from a very young age, which comes from the concept of joint families. The majority of India’s population depends on agriculture, as India is an agricultural country. Agriculture is both practiced as a commercial activity and for self-sustenance. The life in the community is a lot different than the urban lifestyle. The financial conditions of the farmers are not that good, and they do not have access to advanced tools, which makes farming a tough job for them.

My ticket has been confirmed and my train is tonight . I love to traveling through train because Beautiful sightseeing is another noteworthy benefit of train journeys. As the train travels, one can enjoy the views of the countryside, farms, forests, factories, etc. This makes train journeys more comprehensive than journeys by air or road.

Finally I reach my village 😊, meeting to all my family members , getting love from them and I am very very very happy

Today I am going to my farm and visit to all parts of village

People in villages lead a very ordinary life with almost no luxury, but they are happy with their limited resources. The locals live in “kaccha” houses or temporary houses, made up of mud or clay, which has thatched roofs made out of straws or burnt clay tiles. The infrastructure is not that good in the villages; there might be just one or two schools and hospitals in the whole village. The literacy rate in villages is also very less due to this fact.

There are many advantages to living in a village-like the infinite supply of fresh air and a clean atmosphere. Moreover, the healthy environment of a village is maintained by freshly plowed vegetables from the field

So finally my holiday come to end and I will return to Mumbai day after tomorrow I have enjoy a lot and I also want to live here for a whole life but because of education I have to go mumbai
